> IMPENDING WAR BETWEEN NE-PAUL AND THIBET.

There is, we fear, every probability of war between Nepaul and Thibot. The present quarrel is very similar to the quarrel which lad to the war of 1855. The bot blood of the Goorkhas is at fever point. They have already sent an ultimatum, and have threatened to withdraw their Agent from Lhases if the reparation they demand monks of the three great monasteries, under the house in which the disputants were, and some the rear, and gave up on the way back. stand, in which he is fully supported by the authorities at Khatmanda. The real question at COMMERCE. issue now is the amount of compensation due on secount of the property plundered by the Thibetan monks from the Nepaulese traders last epring. In spite of the recommendations of the ON LONDON .--Chinese Ambas, the highest offer made by the Thibetan Government is only four lakes of rapees, whereas the claim, which is supported by strong evidence of its reasonableness, is for sixteen or seventeen lakbs. The Thibetons have again invoked the good offices of the Chinese Ambas at Lhossa to effect a settlement, but with such divergent views as to the amount due, there is no present likelihood of coming to an smicable agreement. As to the original raid, there has never been a denial, and in the beginning the On CALGUTTA.—Bank, 3 days'eight 2235 Thibetaus professed much readiness to make reparation, and were loud in disowning any political significance in connection with the riot. They have since been profuse in evasive answers and unsatisfactory proposals for a settlement, as, for example, that representatives of both sides should meet on the frontier, but unattended by the witnesses whose evidence alone could testify. to the amount of loss incurred, and to the persons really responsible for the injury inflicted. The Napaulcas Durbar is, therefore, now concluding that without pressure, restitution will not be made. They have sent an ultimatum, and are, as we said, likely soon to withdraw their agent if their demand be longer resisted. Meanwhile preparation is being made for war. Work in the arsenals is brisk, supplies are being collected, mules are being purchased in all directions, and expertation of grain into British territory is practically stopped. The Goorkhas, as all their neighbours know to their cost, are no despicable enemy. They are a race of born warriors. The population of Napaul, though vaguely ascertained, is at least two million, and every man capable of bearing arms is liable to military service. In times of peace a stauling army is dispersed all over the country, while from 30,000 to 35,000 men are always stationed at Khatmanda. In the campaign of 1855 Jung Bahadur put 55,000 men into the field, with forty pieces of artillery. They soon carried the posses which are so steep that sheep and goats are the only beasts of burden employed. Once over, they drove the Thibetans before them. Jung Bahadur, when he was easely entrepched on the other side, declared that he felt strong enough to resist the whole Chinese army. Then, as now, the Chinese Ambas intervened. They said that they would go so far as to order the Thibatans to pay a money indemnity, but if the Nepauless refused their terms they swore seven times over that they would bring a Chinese army to ravage Nepaul, destroy its capital, and carry off its Rajan before the Celestial Emperor in his fiercest mood. Tartar troops were actually despatched against Jung Bahadur. But eventually the Nepaulese accepted an indemnity of two lakhs of silver rupees, and withdraw across the passes into their own country. It is evident from the Poking Guzette that the Chinese Government hold the Lhassa authori. ties to blame, and whatever the outcome of the present war, it is probable that the Ministers Chinese Imperial Loan of 1874—Nominal. will-not again be permitted to delegate their Chinese Imperial Loan of 1877—Nominal, authority to the monks. Still, in the event of Chinese Imperial Loan of 1878—Nominal. war, the Court of Peking could not permit Thibet Chinese Imperial Loan of 1881—Par. to be overrun for any long time by Goorkha Chinese Imperial Loan of 1881—Par. troops. The Nepanlese know that if they deolere war, they have an arduous task before them. They know, too, that China is hard pressed in other quarters just now. They recognize the difficulty of the undertaking. But neither that nor the probable cost will deter them once their warlike passions have been aroused. The gravity of a fierce campaign on the Indian frontier has, of course, attracted the attention of the Indisn Foreign Office, and it is to be hoped that mediation may at any rate first be tried. INDIAN SILK.

The Government of India have lately publish. ed what is called a "Memorandum on Silk in India," by Mr. L. Liotard, of the Department "w of Revenue and Agriculture. The work, however, is more than a memorandum, for, besides giving a history of the steps taken by Government to develope the silk industry in each separate province in India up to the present time, it contains much useful and interesting information regarding the silkworm itself. The history of sericulture dates from the earliest periods of the East India Company, and the records of 1817 to 1621 teem with extracts on the subject. In 1769 a colony of reelers was brought from Italy to teach the system followed in the filatures at Novi; in 1775 the exports of raw silk from India amounted to 187,494lbs.; and from that period they went on increasing with unimportant fluctuations till the year 1872-79, when the export of silk and silk manufactures amounted to 2,231,578 lbs., valued at Rs. 1,25,63,561. Since that year the industry has declined with astonishing rapidity, until in 1881-82 it was only 340,750 lbs., valued at Rs. 30,17,275. Nearly the whole of this silk is produced in Bengal, and therefore, in looking into the causes of the decline in the trade, it will be unnecessary to go outside of the Presidency. Mr. Liotard writes that, for the past twelve years, the silk industry has had "a continual struggle to preserve its life principle;" and the European section of industry has soffered more seriously than the native. The reason of this appears to be that the natives dispose of there silk in different parts of India, whereas European manufacturers export to Europe. Up to August, 1875. STATION foreign silk, whether raw or manufactured, was subject to a duty of 71 per cent. The duty was then reduced to 5 per cent, and on the 10th of March last year, it was abolished altogether. These measures, however, neither lowered the Amoy walne of the imports, nor increased their quantity. The falling-off in silk exports from India Negasaki... to Europe during the past ten years has apparently been due to two causes, -- a deterioration in the quality of the silk and increased competition from China and Japan. Although silk exhibitions. and other measures have been proposed, no plan has yet been devised for counteracting the first of these svils. The only hopeful outlook for the future may be drawn from the fact that Manile concurrently with the decline in the raw wilk Hongkong, 50.01

The last chapter of Mr. Lietard's work is devoted to the latest measures taken by the Government for Promoting the sllk industry in the country. These measures are divided under two heads the extension of mulberry plantation, and the distribution of silkworm oggs. As regards the first head, the Government during last year asnotioned the establishment of a numery in the vicinity of the Forest School at Debra, and al. lowed a sum of Re. 1,000 to meet its expenses; and at the same time all Local Governments the Botanical Hardens at Saharanasa The Temperature the Botanical Gardens at Scharnupore. The Hamidity Government of the North-Western Provinces Direction of wind was desired to spare no effort to extend the oul. Force of wind tivation of these mulberry trees. Several of the Local Governments availed themselves of the offer, and their requirements were supplied. With regard to the distribution of eggs, arrangements were made with Mesers. Lister & Co., of Dobra Doon, by which one pound of silk. worm-eggs was obtained for distribution in the cold weather of 1882.83, and a regular supply was to be maintained in future years. The Local Governments were then communicated with, and supplies of eggs were sent to Bengal, Basgalore, Madras, the Central Provinces, and to the Superintendent of the Government Gardens at Saharunpore. The other local Go. vernments declined the offer. Just at this time an additional supply of eggs was received

EMPERIAL QUARTO. TINGLISH AND CHINE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled, All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English two correspond in the size of body, thereby affecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration :--Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinose characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst THE Steamship this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which deck. have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English | THE 3/3 L. I. I. French Barque to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in Chins, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested against FIRE to the extent of $60,000 on any in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-

It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages. DUCED TO & PER CEST. NETT PER ANNUM A Large REDUCTION in PRICE is made to Purchasers of SIX or more Copies. LONDON: TRUBBER & Co., 60. PATERNOSTER ROW.
